a note from Father John

In the seminary we would take turns with the household chores by groups. I was a group leader my last two years. One time my group was in charge of the dining room, and no one else showed up to set the tables. There was probably a soccer game going on, I don't remember. Anyway, I was there doing everything alone, feeling resentful. The rector of the seminary walked in, and without saying a word, put on an apron and started setting tables. We did the whole job in silence. When we finished he took off the apron, looked at me, and said, "The Son of Man did not come to be served but to serve."

Jesus demonstrates it at the beginning of the gospel passage, when James and John come up to him and say, "We want you to do for us whatever we ask." A natural response could have been, "Excuse me, who is the disciple here?" Instead he puts himself at their service. He, who is God, did not cling jealously to his equality with God, but rather he emptied himself and took the last place, to the point of death on a cross (Phil 2:6-11).

Jesus learned this, like everything else, from his Father. It is the nature of God, to lower himself and raise up the other. The Father has given all things to his Son, withholding nothing for himself (Mt 11:27, Mt 28:18, Jn 3:35, Jn 16:15). In turn, Jesus exalts his Father. "The Father is greater than I," he claims (Jn 14:28). But aren't the Son and the Father are equal? Yes, but here we have entered into the logic of love. Love builds up the other. St. Paul invites us to live in this love, "considering others superior to yourselves" (Phil 2:3). I like to reflect sometimes that heaven is hierarchical. There is hierarchy among the angels, and hierarchy among the saints. And it works, and there is no oppression, because there is no sin, no desire to dominate the other, only love and the desire to serve and build up the other. It is John the Baptist's "he must increase and I must decrease." Think of a parent's joy when they teach something to their child, then watch as their child surpasses their own skill. That joy is of God. The desire to see the other exalted. May we all know that joy.

Mk 10:35-45

The Retired Priests of the Archdiocese of Washington Collection is November 2nd and 3rd this year. Our priests enrich our lives in many ways: they baptize our children, comfort us in the confessional, witness our marriage vows and hold our loved ones' hands as the Lord calls them home. Let us come together to help provide care and housing for our retired priests so they can live their retirement in dignity. There are four ways you can support the Retired Priests Collection this year:

- 1) Envelope: Please use the envelope mailed to you earlier this month, the envelope in the pews or near the entrance of the Church, or the second collection envelope provided by the parish on the weekend
- 2) Online: Please visit adw.org/rpc to support the collection online via credit card or cryptocurrency.
- 3) Text: Please text "Priest" to (301) 231-1816. A text with a link to a secure form will be sent back to you to complete your generous gift for this important collection.
- 4) Cryptocurrency: Visit adw.org/Crypto4RPC
- 5) QR Code: Please scan the QR code below with your mobile phone to make a gift online.
- 6) Stock/IRA/Donors Advised Fund: Please visit adw.org/rpc for instructions or call Joe Gillmer at (301) 853-5375.

In February, our youth in grades 9-12, will have the opportunity to attend the Mount 2000 retreat at Mount St. Mary's University. If you wish to help support this endeavor with a monetary donation please scan the QR code for a link to our online giving platform.

MUSICIANS & SINGERS NEEDED!

QUICK CATECHISM

Why does telling the truth require discretion?

Communicating truth must be done prudently within the context of charity. Often the truth is wielded as a weapon and thus has a destructive rather than a constructive effect. (2488-2489, 2491)

When conveying information, we should think of the “three sieves” of Socrates: Is it true? Is it kind? Is it helpful? Discretion is called for also in dealing with professional secrets. They should always be kept, except in special cases defined by strict criteria.

Likewise, anyone who publicizes confidential communications that were made under the seal of secrecy commits a sin. Everything we say must be true, but we need not say everything that is true.
