Pastor's Corner

Flannery O'Connor, an only child -- was born in Savannah and educated in Catholic schools there. The family moved to her mother's family home of Milledgeville when O'Connor was 12 and after her father died, at the age of 44, of lupus. O' Connor attended Georgia State College for Women (now Georgia College and State University) and then the Iowa Writer's Workshop, from which she received her master's degree in fine arts in 1947. Her writing was clearly superior — fellow writers at Iowa recall workshop sessions, usually sites of unrepentant critical blood-letting, falling silent after Flannery's stories were read. Her first novel, Wise Blood, was published in 1952. This darkly comic tale of Hazel Motes, an intense, sharp and uncompromising man running hard from his call to preach the Gospel, was so striking, it prompted Evelyn Waugh to comment, "If this is really the unaided work of a young lady, it is a remarkable product."

So what will you find when you read --

Flannery O'Connor? What will probably strike you first is the riot of characters — rural Southerners, incisively drawn with precision and an uncanny comic sense: the self-satisfied "good woman" thanking God He didn't make her either black or white trash, the clueless intellectuals out to lay ignorance bare, traveling salesmen and con artists, preachers, prophets and children filled with ancient wisdom. But what we have here is no mere Southern Gothic landscape, filled with the grotesque for our entertainment at their expense. O'Connor wrote out of a deep, thoroughly Catholic vision of life, and saw her vocation of writing as essentially telling stories to uncover "mystery through manners, grace through nature."

"Everybody who has read Wise Blood -- thinks I'm a hillbilly nihilist, whereas I would like to create the impression....that I'm a hillbilly Thomist," she wrote in a letter in 1955. O'Connor was deeply conversant in Catholic theology... She was accused of nihilism because of the violence in her stories. But O'Connor makes clear that her purposes are as far from that as one can get when she wrote in another letter: "The stories are hard, but they are hard because there is nothing harder or less sentimental than Christian realism...When I see these stories described as horror stories, I am always amused because the reviewer always has hold of the wrong horror." [Previous excerpts from Amy Wellborn, <http://catholiceducation.org/articles/arts/al0058.html>]

Flannery O'Connor quotes – 1) To expect too much is to have a sentimental view of life and this is a softness that ends in bitterness. 2) Everywhere I go, I'm asked if I think the universities stifle writers. My opinion is that they don't stifle enough of them. There's many a best seller that could have been prevented by a good teacher. 3) It is better to be young in your failures than old in your successes. 4) The truth does not change according to our ability to stomach it. 5) When a book leaves your hands, it belongs to God. He may use it to save a few souls or to try a few others, but I think that for the writer to worry is to take over God's business. 6) The writer operates at a peculiar crossroads where time and place and eternity somehow meet. His problem is to find that location. 7) Faith is what someone knows to be true, whether they believe it or not. 8) Manners are of such great consequence to the novelist that any kind will do. Bad manners are better than no manners at all, and because we are losing our customary manners, we are probably overly conscious of them; this seems to be a condition that produces writers. 9) The Southerner is usually tolerant of those weaknesses that proceed from innocence. 10) I am not afraid that the book will be controversial, I'm afraid it will not be controversial. 11) There's many a bestseller that could have been prevented by a good teacher. 12) I find that most people know what a story is until they sit down to write one. 13) At its best our age is an age of searchers and discoverers, and at its worst, an age that has domesticated despair and learned to live with it happily. 14) It seems that the fiction writer has a revolting attachment to the poor, for even when he writes about the rich, he is more concerned with what they lack than with what they have. 15) Conviction without experience makes for harshness. 16) The basis of art is truth, both in matter and in mode. 17) The writer can choose what he writes about but he cannot choose what he is able to make live. 18) I am a writer because writing is the thing I do best. 18) I hope you don't have friends who recommend Ayn Rand to you. The fiction of Ayn Rand is as low as you can get re fiction. I hope you picked it up off the floor of the subway and threw it in the nearest garbage pail. She makes Mickey Spillane look like Dostoevsky. 19) Anybody who has survived his childhood has enough information about life to last him the rest of his days. 20) Whenever I'm asked why Southern writers particularly have a penchant for writing about freaks, I say it is because we are still able to recognize one. 21) People without hope not only don't write novels, but what is more to the point, they don't read them. 22) Only if we are secure in our beliefs can we see the comical side of the universe. 23) The old woman was the kind who would not cut down a large old tree because it was a large old tree. 24) Accepting oneself does not preclude an attempt to become better. 25) I think it is safe to say that while the South is hardly Christ-centered, it is most certainly Christ-haunted.

Among those influenced by Flannery O'Connor – Actor Tommy Lee Jones, film producers Coen brothers, and John Huston.

St. Lucy Project - Our summer food drive to support the Catholic Charities "St. Lucy

Project warehouse” that distributes food across the Arlington Diocese has been a wonderful success. This food will help to feed the many food insecure children in our diocese who do not know where their next meal will come from. Our generous Parishioners not only brought food and gave cash donations but helped to give out bags and load the truck in order to feed the hungry and minister to the poor of our diocese. We delivered 2,387pounds of food and $640 dollars thanks to St. Catherine’s! May God Bless you for Your Generosity! Carla Lanzara and Lynn Hanlon, Parish Liaison members to Catholic Charities, St. Lucy Project

Support the “Protect Life Rule” - The Trump Administration proposed new regulations to help ensure that abortion is separated from the federal Title X family planning program. A 60-day comment period ending on July 31, 2018 has been opened and the Administration is now accepting comments on the proposed rule. Go to humanlifeaction.org and click ‘Take Action’ (For June 30-July 1, 7-8 and 14-15 bulletins) Event Date: July 31, 2018 [Exp August 1, 2018]

“The Little Sisters of the Poor here at the St. Joseph’s Home are truly blessed to have the parishioners of St. Catherine’s share in the care of the elderly poor through their generous recent gift of $2,000. This will be put directly to use not only to ensure that our Residents’ day- to-day needs are met, but also to fill their days with joy, activity and love. Thank you for helping to make their lives more joyful and meaningful. God bless you all and have a happy summer!”

Here’s a fun email from a friend – Professor James Hitchcock, who lives in Saint Louis: “In a Missouri town in the 19th century the pastor built a new church and commissioned the contractor to put ‘My house is a house of prayer’ over the front door, with the scriptural reference, (I confess I don't know what it is.) The contractor had some extra space looked up the reference, and decided to give good value for the money, so that when the veil was ceremonially removed at the dedication it said, ‘My house is a house of prayer but you have made it a den of thieves.’” Helen, Jim’s wife responded, “Ha! I remember hearing that story. It's Matthew 21:13. I heard that the pastor had this removed and replaced with his original request -- and laid the original ‘den of thieves’ stone in the ground near the church where it allegedly still can be seen.”

REAL (allegedly) SIGNS–1) In the offices of a loan company: "Ask about our plans for owning your home." 2) On a display of "I love you only" Valentine cards: "Now available in multi-packs." 3) In a Tacoma, Washington men's clothing store: "15 men's wool suits, $10. They won't last an hour!" 4) In a Maine restaurant: "Open 7 days a week and weekends." 5) On a roller coaster: "Watch your head." 6) Sign in a non-smoking area: "If we see you smoking we will assume you are on fire and take appropriate action." 6) Sign in an office: "We shoot every 3rd salesman, and the 2nd one just left." 7) Sign in beauty shop window: "Dye now!" 8) Sign on restaurant window: "Great food (50,000 flies can't be wrong)."

Q: What do you call a dog -- on the beach in the Summer? A: A hot dog! Q: Why do bananas use sunscreen? A: Because they peel. Q: How you mend a broken pumpkin? A: With a pumpkin patch! Siena Academy raised $52,697 on the Palio di Siena (including the parish appeal that we did this year in lieu of the All Saints Car Raffle, which we were unable to participate in due to the delays with the permit), making it our most profitable Palio to date. In fact, we have increased our profit every year for the seven years that we have been doing this event. Thank you again to all those who participated and supported this fundraiser! We couldn't have done it without your support! All money goes toward tuition assistance. We will break for the summer and return the end of August. We'll see you in the Fall!
